GREELEY AND BROWN.

We announced Saturday, in our telegraph columns, that the Cincinnati Convention had nominated Horace Greeley for President and B. Gratz Brown for Vice President. We think that Mr. Brown was entitled to be put at the head of the ticket, as he inaugurated the Reform movement in Missouri, and should be rewarded for his services.

We publish elsewhere a communication concerning Mr. Greeley, written by an able writer and personal friend. So far as the position of the News is concerned we shall adhere to the policy of "Watch and wait."

The platform adopted at Cincinnati, if the outline published by us is a correct abridgement, is very good and will be generally approved by the Democratic party. But until we know what policy our party will pursue, we prefer to wait developments. If at any time hereafter we shall decide to declare for the Liberal ticket, we shall not lose anything by acting prudently and discreetly now.

We shall watch popular sentiment, and from day to day give our readers extracts from our exchanges, showing the manner in which the nomination is received.

Our telegraphic dispatches show the comments of the Herald, the World and the Philadelphia Age.

From our Virginia contemporaries we make the following extracts. The Progress hoists the name of Greeley and Brown at its masthead:

(From the Petersburg Progress.)
The selection of Horace Greeley and Gov. Brown as the leaders of the liberal, reformatory spirit and movement of the country indicates at once the moderation and sagacity of those who composed the nominating convention.

Altogether, the nominations are satisfactory; for while they do not give us our preference, they are so infinitely superior in all respects to anything that could come out of the regular Radical organization, that we are content to relinquish our predilections and yield an honest support to the nominees.

Grant's defeat is not only possible, but certain, if the Democratic party will be wise enough to observe and heed the teachings of the present crisis, and make such sacrifices of prejudice and party ambition, as the great object of defeating Grant would pre-eminently justify.

(From the Virginian.)
The fight has been one during which we referred to the "rafters," but we were hopeful that Mr. Adams might have been nominated for the first place on the ticket. Still Mr. Greeley is a very strong man, and there will be a fine show of retributive justice in beating Grant with the philosopher—the pen against the sword. In the meantime we trust that Mr. Belmont and his colleagues will move with great caution, and bear in mind the fundamental maxim of our party—measures, not men.

(From the Petersburg Index.)
It meets most of the conditions: its candidates are strong in the North and Northwest; both of them have been identified with all that has been good in the Republican party; both are men who excite great personal enthusiasm; both come before us as consistent and bold advocates of amnesty, and of constitutional rule; both declared open opposition to military rings, governmental corruption, and the despotic dictations of Mr. Grant, when such declarations were dangerous; both are and have ever been equally fearless of the party whip, whoever wielded it; both are shown that they possess that subtle power over masses of men which is indispensable to campaign leaders. To the declaration of principles made by the Convention we invite special attention. It is one on which all honest men may meet, yet it has no vague generalities to weaken it, but deals in pungent facts and thoughts growing directly from them.

If the Democratic party is wise, its candidate is nominated. If it is determined, its victory is assured.

The Wilmington Star places the names of Greeley and Brown at the head of its editorial columns, while the Journal advocates the policy of "masterly inactivity," and says: "We have had no part or lot in the present nomination, and are in no manner responsible for it. Let us consider the situation calmly and leisurely, and cast our influence and our votes as future events will prove to be best for our own interest."

That is exactly in accordance with our position.

JUDGE MERRIMON IN NASH.
Judge Merrimon will make the first speech in the canvass at Nashville, on Thursday next, the 9th inst., the day of the nominating Senatorial Convention for the District of Nash, Wilson and Franklin.

The people of Nash should turn out in large numbers to hear the able and eloquent champion of our cause. Speeches may also be expected from Maj. John W. Dunham, Capt. J. J. Davis and others.

Let old Nash give our candidate a rousing welcome. He has unfurled our banner to the breeze. He has thrown himself into the struggle. He will do his part. Let us hold up his hands and encourage him to press forward with hope and confidence.

We bespeak for him a large and enthusiastic audience in Nashville on next Thursday.

Come out, fellow-citizens of Nash, and hear our nominee.

OUR WEEKLY AND THE LATE GREENSBORO CONVENTION.
Our weekly issue this week will contain a full report of the proceedings of the grand Conservative Convention held in Greensboro last week, together with the speeches made by Gov. Vance and Judge Merrimon. Any one wanting copies of the paper will notify us at once.

JUDGE MERRIMON.

The Norfolk Journal, in a well written and complimentary article about our candidate for Governor, falls into an error in regard to Judge Merrimon's being turned out of the Judgeship by the reconstruction measures.

Judge Merrimon resigned during the reign of General Canby, because civil law was subordinated to military power and the fiat of the military commander more potent than the order of the civil Judge.

Speaking of the nomination, the Journal says:

"Out of the large number of enlightened and incorruptible statesmen to be found within the limits of the 'Old North State,' we do not hesitate to say that a better or more judicious selection could not have been made. Combining rare intellectual powers with exalted patriotism and unswerving integrity of character, he is, emphatically, 'the right man in the right place.'"

Judge Merrimon is yet a young man not probably more than forty years of age, of fine physical proportions, of commanding personal appearance, of polite and affable manners, a general wholesome companion—modest and retiring, yet bold and fearless in the defence of truth, of the denunciation of error, and of the denunciation of a North Carolina gentleman.

"At the close of the war he was found fully identified in interest, in feeling and in sympathy with the people of the South, and has ever since been an ardent and active Conservative. He took a leading and prominent part in the proceedings by habeas corpus before the Chief Justice of the State in the summer of 1870 to vindicate and uphold the great principles of civil liberty and personal security against the military measures of Gov. Holden, and falling in the effort before a State Judge, succeeded, at last, before a Judge of the District Court of the United States. He was again with Governor Graham, Judge Battle, and Gov. Bragg, employed by the State in the impeachment trial of Governor Holden, and by his energy and thorough preparation of the cause largely contributed to the successful issue of the prosecution.

"He is full of energy, quick and ready in his perceptions, of clear and large views of public policy, an eloquent and able public speaker; and with him as the candidate, the party which has chosen him as its leader will be led on to a vigorous and successful canvass. It will indeed be happy and joyous day for the people of the good Old North State when they can see installed in the gubernatorial office a man who will remind them of the days of MANLY, of GRAHAM, of BRAGO, of ELLIS, and of VANCE."

THE PRESS ON OUR NOMINEE.

(From the Wilmington Star.)
"Our special dispatches in another column represent the great Convention at Greensboro as the most enthusiastic body that ever assembled in North Carolina. The distinguished nominee for Governor will awaken throughout the State the most immense enthusiasm, and will sweep the State by a large majority. Proud of his high merit and eminent services, the people will rally to his name in the spirit of the grand old times when exalted worth received its full recognition. His noble record is before the people, and to that record he will add fresh lustre."

(For the Daily News.)

The Liberal Candidate.

We presume to say that no one discredits Greeley's honesty or ability. If he is not an honest politician, then the Republican party does not contain one. He may have his crochets, his hobbies, his vagaries; he may be vulnerable to criticism in some particulars, but he is nevertheless a man of ability, consistency and honesty. Indeed, we might well add, he is also of a kindly nature and capable of genuine magnanimity. Since the sun of the young Confederacy went down amid the clouds and darkness of Appomattox, the course of the Triune philosopher towards the South has been marked as that of no other Northern Radical, by a uniform sympathy and magnanimity that is highly commendable. His becoming one of President Davis' surerets at a time when the animosities of the North against the South were the most intense, and when such a procedure was sure to bring censure and unpopularity at the North among his friends and allies was above all praise. We venture "the prebible" that this very kindness on Greeley's part towards the "Rebel Davis," as his enemies delight in stigmatizing him, will be urged against him by Grant's camp-followers and satraps in the North and in the South.

We feel quite certain that whatever of criticism may be applied to him, he will stand the test far better than the great Incapable who opposes him. Call him what you will, he is a hundred fold better man than Grant—purer, truer, nobler. In capacity there can be no comparison instituted. Grant is a man of very superior intellect. In moral character there is even a wider difference still, for Grant is corrupt and vulgar, fond of low associates and small views. Greeley, on the other hand, is a man of unassailable purity of life and incorruptible integrity. We write this not in passion, but calmly and deliberately. We believe that Greeley is entitled richly to all we have said and to even more. In the progress of the presidential campaign we will have frequent opportunities of recurring to this subject.

In consequence of the difficulty of obtaining flowers with which to decorate the graves of the dead in the Confederate cemetery at Petersburg, Va., in June, it is probable the annual decoration at that place will take place earlier than the 9th of June. The ladies do not design, however, giving up the celebration of that day, but will make a special pilgrimage to commemorate the day on which the oldest citizens of the city fell in its defence.

The Lynchburg News is informed by a gentleman from the Southwest, that notwithstanding the lateness of the season, many cattle in several of the Southern counties are dying for want of food, owing to the backwardness of the grass crop.

The Liberal Republicans of Norfolk, Va., purpose reorganizing a club in that city an early day.

MR. HENRY LAWSON, of Robeson county, received the original charter, from the great Lodge of Scotland, of the Masonic Lodge No. 70, on March 12th, 1816, 56 years ago. This doubtless makes Mr. Lawson one of the oldest Masons in the State.

THE MURDER OF COL. F. M. WISHART BY THE LOWREY OUTLAWS.—The Wilmington Journal of Saturday gives the following account of the recent killing of Col. Wishart, of Robeson county, by the Lowrey outlaws:

Those incarnate fiends, the gang of Robeson county outlaws, have added to their atrocious list of crimes the most atrocious, cowardly and fiendish—the murder of Col. F. M. Wishart, of Shoe Heel, Robeson county, on Thursday last. Though the victim of violent treachery, led, perhaps, too far by his courageous spirit, he yet died a brave man in the effort to benefit his fellow-men.

The facts attending the murder of Wishart, as far as we have been enabled to gather them are these: It seems that one day last week the outlaws Stephen Lowrey and Andrew Strong, loaded the freight train on the W. C. & R. R. near Shoe Heel, Col. Wishart being on board at the time. They persisted in approaching him until he finally consented to a conference with them. The conversation was long and apparently important, the outlaws finally taking their departure. Andrew Strong was heard to remark on leaving, "when we send for you, you come." In Shoe Heel, subsequent to this interview, Colonel Wishart divulged the fact that the subject of the conference was a proposition on the part of the outlaws to surrender themselves to him, on condition that he would intercede and procure their pardon, and that they would then depart the country.

Thinking that perhaps he could after all benefit the country by causing the outlaws to leave in some manner, he seemed determined to hold another interview with them, upon receipt of notice of the time and place, as had been previously determined. Word was received, and the appointment was fixed for Tuesday, but Colonel Wishart's business engagements were such as to compel its postponement until Thursday. At the appointed time this fearless man, alone and unarmed, we hear, took his way to the place of meeting, a spot on the public road between three quarters of a mile from a place called Lebanon Church, between Shoe Heel and Red Banks, and distant some four or five miles from each of those points. But alas! he never returned alive. He was either cowardly murdered from ambush, or basely shot down while in the conference to which he had been betrayed. Between 12 and 1 o'clock of that day two or three negroes working in the woods near the scene of the murder, heard four reports of firearms. About 4 o'clock the same afternoon, Mr. Wm. Sellers, while riding by this point, found the body of Col. Wishart lying in the road, and completely riddled with buckshot. He was shot through the side and shoulder, and also in the head, one or two shot passing through the brain. His death must have been instantaneous. The fact was reported, and a party of grief-stricken friends and neighbors secured the body and conveyed it to his home in Shoe Heel.

Col. Wishart was one of the most intrepid and courageous of those who undertook measures to rid the county of the outlaws. His efforts in hunting them were persistent and vigorous. He exerted himself most ardently to either capture or kill them for months and months, and was regarded by them as their most dreaded foe. He was at the time of his death engaged in merchandizing at Shoe Hill, and leaves a wife and three young children. It will be recollected, when the State authorities commenced war on the Lowreys, Col. Wishart was appointed to the command of one of the regiments then authorized to be raised.

The place of the killing was near the scene of the killing of young Davis by the outlaws some months since. Stephen Lowrey and Andrew Strong are supposed to have together accomplished the deed. Tom Lowrey having been elsewhere at the time.

The blood of this brave man unites with that already so pitifully spilled by the Lowrey gang in calling for vengeance upon the murderers. And while unavenged, this blood, so lately shed, remains a blot upon the administration of the powers that be, and a damning evidence against the boasted protection of the citizen.

Remarks of Gov. Zeb. B. Vance, at Greensboro, on Wednesday, the 1st instant.

(CONCLUDED.)

I thank God that out of the bosom of this party itself, such men as Trumbull, Schurz, Greeley and others have had their eyes opened to its strides toward despotism and are rising in their might to contend for the first principles of civil liberty. "Judgment must be given at the house of God." When we were powerless judgment began there. (Applause.) You and I could not appeal to them, for we had a record of treason and rebellion that was odious to them. Numbers of these great men are now rising up. The God of day begins to herald his approach. If wise and prudent in the exercise and maintenance of our rights, we may yet rejoice in the hope of the glory of victory. It is always pleasant to receive returning converts; but no pen can express, no tongue can tell the doom that awaits those traitors and oppressors who have expended so much zeal in heaping infamy and outrage upon their own countrymen. (Applause.)

And when that day of redemption shall dawn, I hope we all shall be able to say, I faltered not in the hour of trial. I was in this matter a believer in the full perseverance of the saints. When liberty does come to us it will come with strength and power and come to stay. The lessons of liberty we have learned we will teach to our children. The old stories of the Revolution will be revived and re-taught.

I will venture to say that every child of our distinguished chairman has a lecture every Sunday evening after prayers on civil liberty. On Sunday because he will consider it sacred. (Applause.)

In 1870 our people were almost in despair. The boys who had fought through the war had to be cautioned and urged to endure to the end. They that endured to the end shall be saved. I told them, "sing good songs boys, but sing 'em low." [laughter.] We'll fight them with ballots and not bullets. By strenuous exertion we won a noble victory. The ballots which commenced going in on the day of the election were footstools of destiny that dogged the heels of those rascals, and the infernal crew who had hounded down our people went out by twos and threes to other places. (Applause.)

At that very instant the charismatic power of the judiciary revived, refreshed with new whiskey, [cries of that's so!] like Minerva from the brain of Jove. [laughter.] Every thing flew into place, and these men pretended they were going on the same way all the while. [laughter.] "Hurrah for the black chicken as we said before. Now we will all stand together and not sell out." One hope I have, is that there is nothing left to them to sell out. [laughter.]

The State has a homestead in the Capitol, and the Radical party have a homestead in the penitentiary, and there is nothing left for them to steal except to steal away like a whipped dog. (Laughter and applause.) They invite us to join their party, and what do they offer us?

Well, they'll come to a poor young man who perhaps has been distilling whiskey. They say to him, "Now, Bill, I've been appointed to sell you out, but if you will stop all this foolishness I'll put you in the way to make some money."

Well, most every man is ready to quit foolishness, (laughter,) and most every man is willing to be put in a way to make money. "Now, if you'll just join with us you'll be all right." And they make him a still house spy.

Poor fool, he could do that without joining the Radical party, for any man can be an informer. In that way they have filled their party with a certain class of men who constitute an admirable cross between a land pirate and a shovelnose sherd, and strange enough to say, Grant and his party have not sense enough to see that they can't carry the State with such a set as this. But I must hasten to a close. (Cries of go on!) Well, I am going on. (Laughter.) You know I only want to be invited. (Laughter again.)

They make a thousand appeals. They ask, if you can stand the secession party any longer. You know they brought on the war, well, suppose they did bring on the war, is that any reason why you should steal what is left when the war is over? Bill Wicket brought on the war, but that is no reason why Holden and Grant should continue to keep themselves in power.

I made out a bill of indictment against this Radical party some time ago. I charged them with keeping alive secession; for secession at the end of the war was killed so dead it would never have held up his head again, but for the Radical party; for when the Radical party raised its head, and they invited the secessionists to join them, they were too indecent and degraded to set for the secessionists to associate with, (laughter,) and the secessionists would not be found in such company.

They tried to get the old Whigs to join them. One of them met me one day in my county, and said, "Vance, you're a mighty clever fellow." I knew that before. (Laughter.) Said I, "Billy, and you are a right clever fellow, and I used to let you vote for me." "Yes," said he, "we were both 'old Whigs' then, but the war broke up all the old parties, you know, and I have been trying to get with that party which is nearest like the old Whig party." So I looked over here and I saw such men as Gov. Graham, Morehead, John A. Gilmer (whose name was one of the purest and noblest in North Carolina.) You looked over there and saw Billy Holden, Rodman, and Dick and $0,000 negroes. I went here with the Conservative Democratic party, and you went over there. I won't tell the story of Jake and the catfish again. (Cries of "yes, tell it again, let's have it!") Jake went out fishing, caught a big cat fish and tied him to his line in the water and went on to another place. While he was gone another nigger came along, pulled up the line, took off Jake's fish and put it into his basket, and tied a smaller fish, which he had caught, to the line, and dropped him into the water. Jake returned, gave the line a strong jerk and tore out the fish's mouth. "Sartin dis can't be my fish," said Jake. "Yes it is, for dis is Jake's line, and dat must be my fish; but, my conscience, aint he sew nigger?"

That might be the old Whig party which Henry Clay led on to victory; but, my conscience, aint it sew nigger? (Laughter and applause.) The difference, Billy, between me and you is this," said I. "You saw a house, went in the back gate, went 'round the house and took up with the niggers in the kitchen. I walked into the front door, and took a seat in the parlor." [laughter and applause.] And we both got honest. (Continued applause.) Henry Clay never went into the kitchen.

This Radical party is as much like the old Whig party as Calhoun was like Hercules or Apollo—as the belts of Orion, flaming in the heavens, are like a dozen fire-flies flashing over a horse's tail in twilight. [Great laughter.]

In conclusion, let me recommend to you what the Apostle Paul wrote to his beloved son Timothy, when so many who had professed to stand by him were ashamed of his cause: "For the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain, fight the good fight of faith." Be not ashamed of these chains, my friends. If we suffer to the end we shall see the gates of liberty unfolding to receive us, and we shall by and by enter into the blessed enjoyment of lasting peace and liberty. [Tremendous cheering.]

In Laurens county, S. C. five hundred plows are idle and ten thousand acres untilled in consequence of the recent Ku-klux arrests. Fourteen prisoners, convicted of "conspiracy," were sentenced at Columbia to from two to ten years' imprisonment and $100 to $1,000 fine.

Advices from Zanzibar again state the explorer Livingston is safe. As the intelligence is apparently positive, it is to be hoped that its confirmation will be speedily given, and the question of the explorer's existence and whereabouts set at rest forever.

Daniel Perry, a deaf mute, of Greenbrier county, Va., was shot and killed by Charles T. Moore a few days since. He has surrendered himself and claims that he acted in self defense.

WARRENTON HOTEL.

FOR SALE.

IN consequence of old age and infirm health for the last seventeen years, and not being able to attend to the duties of a hotel, I have resolved to sell the above property. It is located in the town of Warrenton, Warren county, N. C. The hotel contains some thirty rooms, and all necessary out-houses, and can accommodate from 50 to 75 guests comfortably. It is the only public house in the village. Warrenton is celebrated for its healthfulness, good society and schools. There are four churches of different denominations in the village, and it has been for many years a favorite resort of persons seeking health in summer and fall. This property will be sold lower than any property of the kind ever offered to the public. I deem it useless to give a farther description of the property, as any person desiring to purchase, can come and examine the premises. I am determined to sell.

The hotel will continue open for the reception of the traveling public, and I invite all health seekers, in the summer, to call upon me. My terms will be moderate. MRS. M. M. R. BROWNLOW.

GUANO GUANO! GUANO!!

WALNUT HILL, N. C., Feb. 18, 1872.

Messrs. A. G. Lee & Co., Raleigh.

GENTLEMEN:—By your request, I herewith submit the result of an experiment on cotton, with different kinds of Guano purchased of you last season. I planted twenty rows, using on the 1st four nothing, On the 2nd 40 lbs. of Peruvian, On the 3rd 40 lbs. of Phosphate, On the 4th 40 lbs. of Phosphate and Peruvian mixed (1-5 Peruvian and 4-5 Phosphate), the best of land all being of the same quality.

The Guanos were all accurately weighed when put in the cotton carefully weighed from each set of rows when picked out, and the cost of each kind of Guano correctly calculated; with interest at 8 per cent. per annum added. Taking the first four rows

(without Guano) as a basis, the following is the result:

Net profit on the 2nd row (Peruvian) on the money laid out, 7 1/2 per cent.

Net loss on the 3rd row (Peruvian) on the money laid out, 10 1/2 per cent.

Net loss on the 4th row (Bat) on the money laid out, 20 1/2 per cent.

Net profit on the 5th row (mixture) on the money laid out, 9 1/2 per cent.

The cotton was put at 6 1/2 cents per pound in the seed.

Very respectfully yours,

A. T. MIAL.

We can furnish all the above kinds of Guano here at the following rates for cash:

Peruvian, 50 per ton, 57 50

Patapasco Guano, 50 per ton, 57 50

Wando Fertilizer, 50 per ton, 57 50

Phosphate of Lime, 50 per ton, 55 00

Soluble Sea Island Guano, 60 per ton, 61 00

Zell's Ammoniated super-phosphate, 57 50 per ton.

Maryland Cotton Food, 57 50 per ton.

Parties desiring it can get any of the above on time at a small advance on the above prices, by making arrangements with us.
